The Republic of Belarus is ranked 29-th out of 148 countries according to the ranking of percentage of households connected to the Internet

Broadband Commission for Sustainable Development published the report “Broadband Status: Broadband for Sustainable Development (September 2017)". The report illustrates the dynamics of development regarding such telecommunication indicators as: broadband subscribers and households connected to the Internet.

This year the Republic of Belarus was ranked 29th out of 148 countries according to the ranking of percentage of households connected to the Internet. As for the index "the number of wireless broadband access subscribers per 100 inhabitants" Belarus took the 58th position among 196 countries.

According to the latest data, as for the index "the number of fixed broadband access subscribers per 100 inhabitants", the Republic of Belarus is ranked the 21st out of 196 countries, in 2015 it was ranked 23rd.

Source URL: https://www.mpt.gov.by/news/04-10-2017-2338